Fund Objective

The Barita Unit Trusts Income Portfolio is similar to a mutual fund that enables investors to pool their savings in a common fund with the potential of earning higher rates while mitigating risk. It also allows investors to take advantage of investment opportunities in a wide variety of instruments that would not normally be available to them as individual investors. Its unique feature is accommodating individuals who wish to have their interest paid monthly, while principals are rolled over to the next interest payment period. While interest is taxed at each roll period, investors can automatically reinvest their interest which compounds their returns over time.

Why Invest in the Fund

Jamaica inflation remains above target, with point-to-point inflation at 7.5% in July 2026. The Bank of Jamaica held the policy rate at 5.50% in August, citing elevated risks from commodity prices, transport costs and Hurricane Melissa recovery. GDP contracted an estimated 2.9% year-on-year in Q2 2026, while unemployment remained low at 3.7% in April. In this setting, short-term rates should remain anchored near policy levels, while the portfolio emphasizes liquidity, carry and inflation-risk monitoring.
